SPEIRS MAJOR

The space features a beautifully detailed ceiling, with exposed services, finished in predominantly dark grey. A circular form creates strong visual impact against this background, while fulfilling the general lighting needs across the varied spaces.

The chosen bright semi-transparent crystalline fitting is softened by a bespoke trimless 750mm white dish, and appears two ways – suspended, or surface mounted set within a perforated metal ceiling plate. These are mounted on a network of 3-circuit track, simplifying installation and controls, and adding the flexibility to add and move lighting while keeping the ceiling clean and orderly.

These fittings are also equipped with colour-temperature tuneable white light. This allows the lighting - in terms of its warmth or coolness - to be adjusted automatically, making it possible to create a profile that better reflects the changing conditions we experience in natural light over the course of a day. The initial lighting profile installed is being assessed to see how the team experiences the lighting, and adjustments can then be made to the programming suit their preferences.
