

Gordon studied at the prestigious Central Saint Martins, part of the University of the Arts in London where he gained a BA (Hons) in Product Design. He then went on to receive his MDes in Lighting Design at Edinburgh Napier University specialising in lighting within the 24 hour urban space and public realm.

After finishing his BA (Hons), Gordon started his career at Neolight before joining Isometrix where he worked in both their London and Hong Kong offices. Whilst there he assisted in retail development, commercial and hospitality projects across South East Asia and China.

Gordon joined Speirs + Major in 2016 and is currently working on several large scale mixed use developments in Hong Kong and India, as well as the new Broadgate site in London.

Gordon is fluent in Cantonese, Mandarin and English. He is a fan of country walks and likes to sketch landscapes.
