

Mayumi studied Architecture at the Kanto Gakuin University, Yokohama before completing a degree in the Built and Visual Environment at Tokyo Institute of Technology in Tokyo. Her passion for light was sparked by her studies and the way lighting can impact unconsciously on the human environment.

During her studies, Mayumi worked as an intern at various lighting design companies in Tokyo. After graduating, she continued working in lighting design at practices in Tokyo and New York, where she was part of the design team on a number of award-winning schemes.

Mayumi joined Speirs + Major in 2019 as one of the first designers based in the Tokyo studio. She has since worked on retail stores in Hong Kong and China, a workplace development in Canada and a public realm scheme in Wembley, UK. She is interested in continuing to develop her design creation and collaboration skills working on international projects.

Mayumi is an Associate member of the IALD. She enjoys travelling and exploring local arts and crafts, and dances the traditional Japanese Nihombuyo in her spare time.
